Hambourg, June 17.

'THE Affairs of Sweden are in 'ſo very bad a Condition, 'that the moſt intelligent Men 'of that Country cannot help 'owning that ſince that Crown 'was reſcued from the Dominion of Denmark, 'twas never brought ſo low as now; 'ſeeing they have not only loſt their beſt 'Provinces, which were acquired by ſo 'many bloody and glorious Wars which 'they maintained for almoſt a Century, but 'that at preſent they have an Enemy (who is 'formidable and inured to War) in the 'Heart of Sweden it ſelf, without being 'able to make Head againſt him after having 'loſt intire Armies within a few Years paſt. 'What augments their Misfortunes, is, to 'ſee themſelves without Reſource, at leaſt 'for the preſent, after the laſt Advices from 'Turkey, which relate that the Sultan having 'held a Divan to determine upon Peace or 'War, has reſolved to maintain the Peace 'with the Czar and with the King of Poland, and that conformably to this Reſolution he has warned the King of Sweden 'to hold himſelf ready to be conducted down 'the Viſtula to Dantzick under the Guard 'of 6000 Turks. Theſe Letters add, that 'what had determined the Divan to Peace, 'was among other things, the well appointed Army which the Muſcovites have cauſed 'to advance towards the Frontiers of Turkey, and the good Poſture that Poland is 'putting it ſelf into; and that the Ambaſſador of Poland had found Means to inform thoroughly the Miniſters of the Porte 'of the ſhattered and exhauſted Condition 'of Sweden, and of the preſent Circumſtances of Europe which hinder ſome Potentates (who are in the Intereſts of that 'Crown or inclined to ſave it) from aſſiſting it otherwiſe than barely by Offers of 'their Mediation and good Offices, or by 'Succours no way proportioned to the Neceſſities of a Kingdom ſo drained of Men 'and Money. The ſaid Reſolution of the 'Divan having been formed on ſuch powerful and important Conſiderations, there 'is no Likelihood that the King of Sweden 'or the Ambaſſador of France will by any 'Methods prevail to get it altered; and the 'ſame Letters even aſſure us, that upon the 'King of Sweden's having refuſed to conform 'himſelf to the ſaid Reſolution, but having 'on the contrary inſiſted anew upon the Depoſing of King Auguſtus and the Reſtoring of Staniſlaus, the Sultan had determined to ſend him to ſome more diſtant 'Place, and to confine him there till he 'come to think more coolly.

'The Czar has written a Letter to Prince 'Menzikof, in which he acquaints him that 'he had poſſeſſed himſelf of ſome advantagious Poſts in Finland, and among others 'of the Town of Helſinger, ſo that there 'remained nothing to obſtruct his marching 'to Abo and laying Siege to it. By the 'ſame Letter the Czar orders Prince Menzikof to repair forthwith to him, to command the Army under him; accordingly 'that Prince is preparing to go with all Expedition to Finland, leaving his Army in theſe 'Quarters to be commanded by Prince Dolhorucky. Yeſterday this City concluded a 'Treaty of Accomodation with Prince Menzikof; and ſuch Advantages as to Commerce 'are ſtipulated for us, that our Magiſtrates 'do not ſeem to regret the 200000 Crowns 'which they have agreed to pay to that 'Prince or his Order. But we are in quite 'another Diſpoſition towards the Saxon 'General Count Flemming, who waits only for the Departure of the Muſcovites to 'repreſent his Grievances and Pretentions, 'which we are in no little Alarm about. 'The King of Denmark has made a Preſent 'to Prince Menzikof of a Sword and Cane 'garniſhed with Diamonds to the Value of '20000 Crowns. The Danes no longer 'conceal their Deſign to keep the Territories of the Duke of Holſtein till the Peace, 'and they juſtify this Proceeding by affirming they have clear Proofs that Tonningen 'was delivered up to the Swedes by Order 'of the Adminiſtrator; they keep Tonningen blocked up by 12 Battallions, propoſing to reduce it by Famine. They talk 'likewiſe of making a Deſcent on Schonen 'while the Czar is preſſing Sweden ſo hard 'in Finland. Count Steinbock is at Flensbourg, and is ordered to remain there: 'Likewiſe all the Swediſh Officers are diſtributed to the Places aſſigned them. The 'King of Denmark is about to take up his 'Reſidence at Gottorp with his whole 'Court, the Ducal Family being ordered 'to retire from thence. 'Tis adviſed from 'Berlin, that the King of Pruſſia has reſolved to form a Camp at Reppin near 'Mecklenbourg, for 12000 Men, and that 'Troops are on the March thither accordingly.
